

Time Heals

*How long time did seem to go,
when all our days were filled with woe.
But how short the time when we could laugh,
the memories all now in the past.*

*Time goes so it must seem,
for only now she's in my dreams.
For there I see her smiling face with tons of love for all to take.*

*Although you think I'm just a fool,
I can see her as I leave for school.
Days gone by to some it seems,
But, Oh, how wonderful are my Dreams.*

*Tomorrow when I wake from this,
She'll be beside me, no memories too small to miss.
Though time may play a trick on me, I'll use it for the best to see.
She'll always be right next to me.*

*So just take a little time each day,
to remember her in a loving way.
Her face, her smile, her tender touch,
No time with her could be too much*

*So time is all we seem to have,
To remember her and the good days we've had.
So now she's with the Lord above, to wait for us, till we come.
So now I want the world to see, just how important time is to me.*
