A COWBOY'S REQUEST

I've heard the talk of golden streets
And mansions on the hill.
For some I guess that's heaven,
But God knows how I feel.

Me and my Christian friends are cowboys,
And we'd never turn down God's grace.
But cities of gold ain't what we look to.
See, we run a little different race.

We just want to serve the Lord.
Don't care much about money or jewels.
We live life different then most
Though we still follow God's rules.

God wants us all to be happy.
Christians don't have a sad heart.
He made us every one different
On purpose right from the start.

So when I think of heaven,
My pictures quite different at best.
Cause God knows us cowboys
Don't think like all the rest.

In Loving Memory Of
Gordon B. Lambeth
