

MEMORIALS

st in art, music, literature, archisculpture portrays the heart throbs nd generations as they sought to their heroes and loved ones. The Taj Mahal, Rheims, Saint Peter's nster in the Old World; the Wash-Lincoln memorials, the Bok Sing-memorial highways, stadiums and in the New World, all enrich life us that we are heirs of a great past. do we believe in God, and a future , happiness and beauty surpassing ception; but we also feel that in these worthy ones we are able to heights and to challenge posterity er accomplishments. member, therefore, that while we our parting tribute and to bring omfort to the sorrowing, we have consecrate ourselves anew to the red task of creating a better world. e sanctity of love and memory let ustain the relatives and close be evidencing of faith and hope; little closer in friendship and ng; to inspire the bereaved with rage for the days ahead; and to memory picture that shall ever a source of comfort and strength.
